
Mike Davis
Senior Vice President,
International Entertainment

Universal Parks and Resorts

Universal Parks and Resorts recently announced that veteran Entertainment Theme Park Executive Mike Davis has accepted a newly established position of Senior Vice President - International Entertainment for Universal Parks and Resorts. After being in various management roles within the industry for nearly 4 decades, UPR is excited to have him expand his leadership role, experience and insights into our broader and growing International Operations for UPR. During his more than 17-year career with Universal, as the SVP/Executive Producer for Universal Studios Japan, he has been responsible for creating and producing memorable and award-winning shows, atmosphere entertainment, and production events at USJ in Osaka Japan. In his new position, Mike will continue to play a key leadership and Executive Producing role in the development of entertainment at all of Universal's international parks – including Universal Beijing. Davis will join the international team of UPR executives, led by International President, Page Thompson.

Since joining the USJ executive team in 2000 as a member of the original grand opening team, he has produced hundreds of millions of dollars of successful shows and events, while being recognized for numerous international awards of excellence from IAAPA and TEA. He has served as a keynote speaker and lecturer at industry conventions on a variety of topics in both Asia and the US and presented seminars on the art and process of creative thinking. Prior to joining Universal he spent more than 20 years at the Walt Disney Company, starting as a Casting/Talent Booking Assistant before rising to a variety of executive roles including: Vice President of Entertainment for the Disneyland Resort, the Vice President/Executive Producer for the Walt Disney Special Events Company, which produced worldwide corporate events for multiple divisions of the Walt Disney Company.

During his long career his numerous charitable positions have included serving on the Boards of: The Orange County Performing Arts Center in So. California, The Anaheim Memorial Hospital Foundation, President of the So. California Children's Charity Amigo de los Ninos. He is currently serving on the Board of Directors of the Asian/Pacific Region of the Theme Entertainment Association (TEA).

Since joining the USJ executive team in 2000 as a member of the original grand opening team, he has produced hundreds of millions of dollars of successful shows and events, while being recognized for numerous international awards of excellence from IAAPA and TEA. He has served as a keynote speaker and lecturer at industry conventions on a variety of topics in both Asia and the US and presented seminars on the art and process of creative thinking. Prior to joining Universal he spent more than 20 years at the Walt Disney Company, starting as a Casting/Talent Booking Assistant before rising to a variety of executive roles including: Vice President of Entertainment for the Disneyland Resort, the Vice President/Executive Producer for the Walt Disney Special Events Company, which produced worldwide corporate events for multiple divisions of the Walt Disney Company.