

EAS 2008

Euro Attractions Show
January 23-25, 2008

Ode to Joy: The State of European Attractions Industry

Ode to Joy Re-dux

The State of the European Industry

Arnaud Bennet, SNELAC

Federico Gonzalez, Disneyland Paris

Mark Fisher, Merlin Entertainment

John Collins, John Collins Leisure

ERA

Economics Research Associates

What's Left to Buy?

ERA

Economics Research Associates

Why So Secretive?

ERA

Economics Research Associates

How Do You Improve?

ERA

Economics Research Associates

New Developments

Medieval theme park plan shelved

Plans for a medieval style theme park in Canterbury, Kent, have been shelved.

The scheme was one of a number of options put out for public consultation for the 35-acre Kingamead site.

Developers had put forward the suggestion for the fenced village theme park but people decided they did not want the attraction.

Dracula theme park plan bites the dust

Romania has dropped plans to build a massive Dracula theme park in the heart of Transylvania after protests from environmentalists and Prince Charles.

ERA

Economics Research Associates

How Important is the Brand?

LEGOLAND CALIFORNIA

Disney

Madame Tussauds

AQUALAND

GRÉVIN

Ripley's Believe It or Not!

SEA-LIFE

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS FLORIDA

SixFlags

ERA

Economics Research Associates

Fickle Consumers

ERA

Economics Research Associates

Key Performance Indicators

ERA

Economics Research Associates

What Do They Want Next?

ERA

Economics Research Associates

e-Volution

ERA

Economics Research Associates

3 Left - Who's Next?

The Good

The Bad

The Ugly

ERA

Economics Research Associates